This is a post-apocalyptic world ruined by an unidentified enemy. The (fictional) city of Arid is being hit hard, but the people are determined to survive. The player takes command of a combination of robots and mechanical creatures, that rise from the ground to defend the city. The primary goal is to defend the city and complete missions. The missions are available in order to support your progression in the game. There are also random events that are triggered by approaching enemies or encountering a hazard (such as radioactive rain or flying bullets). People and wildlife can be rescued, but the player's actions will ultimately determine how long a survivor lives after the rescue. And in order to interact with the environment and people, or gather resources, the player can build their own arsenal of weapons and robotic helpers. The various weapons available in Arid have their own pros and cons, which will heavily influence the way the player interacts with the environment and other people. In Arid, the player will face a variety of enemy types, but all of them will have specific behaviors that the player needs to account for. Arid comes with a map editor. This opens up a world of possibilities for many players to create and share their own maps. The game is still under development and there are many new features that are being added for the upcoming version 1.0. Besides working to finish the game, we would like to release our game! So make sure you follow our updates on social media, where we will release latest progress and new versions. Website: Facebook: Twitter: Youtube: Hello! We are a team of students from Breda University of Applied Sciences. This is our first project together and we worked on it over the course of the whole academic year. Not counting the initial phase of experimentations and prototypes, Arid has been developed in 24 weeks. Being a student project released entirely for free, the overall scope is limited, but your passion and feedback truly helped us during the game's development. You can meet us at our Official Discord, we would love to share this experience with you! About The Game Arid: This is a post-

Stella is a small and cute girl. Her father, the Legendary Komiya has disappeared and her mother has entrusted her to the care of you. You have the duty to protect Stella and grow a deep love for her! Komiya's goal is to go back to the land of origin. There, he must claim his place as the ultimate hero. He will do everything he can, to become the hero... .. but he is NOT alone. Komiya's love is to grant every wish to help others. Thus, the wishes of many Stella will be fulfilled! Is Stella too young to know love? Or is it possible that there is an adult behind the child, a different girl that she will not let go of? This is a game where two stories intersect, where there are many twists and surprises... play for yourself! Be active and make your own choices! Imagine the chaos if you don't pay attention to your actions and time runs by! Will you feel a solid bond with Stella? Or will you return to your childhood - immersed in another world? Be one step closer to what you wished for... Become the Legend. NOTE: Touching Stella will NOT trigger the finishing cutscene. Only a starting cutscene will be shown. Touches from the world of the game will be based on the MCM12 data, so the sexual scenes and interactions during the cutscenes will not be based on the actual data. What is the Restart function? In case you make a mistake during play and Stella is sick to death, you can restart the game. This can help Stella to recover, but your progress will be reset to the starting point. Features: 2 Different Story Modes: If Stella's wish is granted, she will be able to meet the legendary hero Komiya in a world where everything has been arranged to honor his wish. This mode is for Stella. If you help her, the game will be over. If you don't decide to help her, the story will continue in a new world where Stella won't be able to see the legendary hero. There are 2 modes. The ending depends on your choices. You can change the ending at any time during play. There are various endings. There is no ending that is better than the others.
